

DUNAS GOLF

BY TERRAS DA COMPORTA

Fact Sheet

Description

The Dunas Golf Course at “Terras da Comporta” offers a unique and secluded coastal experience in the stunning surroundings of the Sado Estuary Nature Reserve. With 38,4 hectares of natural sandy terrain, this 18-hole, par 71 golf course is a true links masterpiece, the first one designed in Europe by renowned golf architect David McLay-Kidd.

With its fairways covered in fescue grass, the Dunas Golf Course presents a challenging and visually stunning landscape that demands precision and concentration. Golfers of all levels can choose from six optional tees on each hole, adapting the game to their skills and preferences.

Dunas Golf Course is set to be one of the new stars of European golf.

Architect

David McLay-Kidd is a renowned golf course architect known for his exceptional designs.

Born in Scotland, McLay-Kidd has had a significant impact on the world of golf architecture with his innovative approach and attention to detail.

One of McLay-Kidd's most notable achievements is the design of Dunas Golf Course in "Terras da Comporta". This links golf course showcases his talent for creating challenging yet visually stunning layouts. McLay-Kidd's portfolio also includes renowned courses such as Bandon Dunes, Queenwood, Beaverbrook, Machrihanish Dunes and the Castle Course at St Andrews.

Showing a deep respect for the environment, McLay-Kidd incorporates sustainability principles into its designs, ensuring minimal impact on the surrounding ecosystems.

His ability to combine the natural contours of the terrain with strategic elements creates a harmonious and memorable golf experience for players of all levels.

"Golf is a sport brought into existence along the rugged coastline of my country of birth, Scotland. Played over the sandy dunes that fringe the beaches, where the breezy constantly blows, this is what we call Links Golf."
